

The Halloween short story "Spooking the Spook" opens in a festive atmosphere at the Brown Bean Coffee Shoppe, where employees Samantha and Marge are preparing for Halloween. The setting is vividly described with holiday decorations and customers in various costumes. As the story progresses, a mysterious figure dressed as a ghost tries to rob the cafe but is thwarted by an unexpected supernatural force. The climax of the story sees the failed robbery turning into a humorous revelation about

Samantha Wilson's hidden abilities, leading to a lighthearted conclusion with no harm done.

The setting is the fictional Brown Bean Coffee Shoppe in an eastern Georgia coastal town.

Join us as Author Tim Trott reads his short story from the next edition of The Brown Bean Coffee Shoppe (book two).

Date:

Location:

Time:

Tim Trott - TimTrottWrites.com